

Enchanté,

I would like to begin by acknowledging the land we are on lutruwita, with genuine respect for the traditional owners of this land, the palawa people. The palawa people, for many years, referred to this land as palanwina lurini kanamaluka meaning ‘the town near river Tamar’. I pay my respects to elders past, present and emerging and stand for a future that profoundly respects and acknowledges Aboriginal perspectives, culture, language and history.

Tasmania has a true cool climate; the rugged island offers a diversity of landscapes and soil types. Everything grows slowly, innately depicting the true charm of the land, water, air, and passionate growers. Executive chef Nabin’s menu has been created to capture what Tasmania has to offer. You can find everything from fresh, salty, creamy oysters off the East coast, to organically grown vegetables around Launceston, to ethically grown, grass fed beef on the world’s most pristine pastures of Northwest Tasmania on our menu.

In this marginal climate, wine is not made, it is grown. Grapes reflect nuance and subtlety of the terroir while retaining their natural acidity. Tasmania has the purest air and water in the world that grows barley and hops and has distinct native botanicals. It is no wonder Tasmania has internationally recognised beer, gin and whisky. The wine list is carefully curated to showcase exceptional beverages around the island while you can enjoy genuinely delicious dinner.

I did not drink wine at all before moving to Tasmania. James Welsh - owner/sommelier back then, my mentor now - handed over a glass of Home Hill Pinot Noir saying “You gotta taste them”. The wine was pretty and fresh, showing layers and layers of flavours. All my taste buds were exploding – it was an eye-opening moment. Hence the wine list is mainly Tasmanian, but you can also find some interesting and quirky wines from the world.

We encourage you to venture out of your comfort zone and let our knowledgeable team push your palette. You may just discover something you will love.

Santé!

Sommelier/Co-owner
Ethan Han
